Remote learning – snow

Dear parents and carers,

Some of us love the snow, and some of us not quite so much! One thing that's for certain is that the children love it!

With that in mind, if the snow continues to fall at the rate it is and the weather forecast is correct with less blizzard-like conditions tomorrow, we want to be clear that we know there are many more memories to be made in the snow than rigidly following the school's remote learning plans.

Of course learning is important, but so are memories! We'd love to see photos of your child playing in the snow. We wonder who can make the friendliest looking snowman? Can anyone make a snow dog?

We also understand that some children struggle without routine, so the teachers will still be teaching on the live lessons and plans are still ready to be followed at home for all those that wish to. Many of our teachers have young children too, so will also make the most of the opportunity to nip out to play in the snow when they can.

Key worker/vulnerable provision at school

For our key worker and vulnerable provision in school, children will need to come to school suitably dressed and ready to play out in the snow if they wish. Salmestone teachers and teaching assistants certainly get excited at the chance of playing out in the snow with their class (it's just a shame we all can't be together). Please send your child with a change of clothes just in case they need them.

Have a fun but safe time in the snow, remembering to socially distance if you pop out for your daily exercise.

Kind regards

Mr N Pantling
